WCW announces that the Excellence in Supervision Package is Now Available!

Stillwater, MN, August 2011 - Good managers are important keys to success in any organization. In addition to the company, they have a fundamental impact on the lives and successes of the people who work with them. The Excellence in Management book and training materials provide the tools needed to help developing managers expand or refresh their management skills through a step-by-step approach to leadership, achieving goals and excellence.

Managers will learn:

By the end of the training session, managers will be able to:

- Identify the characteristics of the best managers
- Demonstrate their understanding of their own management strengths and work areas
- Identify and set SMART goals for themselves and their employees
- Recognize positive performance in both a formal and informal manner
- Handle employee problems proactively in three different ways
- Manage different employee types with flexibility using different approaches
- Communicate with employees who have different learning styles
- Describe how to build a positive communication climate with their teams
- Assess and improve their listening skills
- Outline the five behaviors that contribute to trust and rapport
- Identify what questions to ask and not to ask in an interview
- Follow the key steps in interviewing
- Check references appropriately
- Use a decision-making matrix for selecting the right candidate
- Outline the difference between leadership and management

- Identify the stages of team development

Your Excellence in Management package is loaded with the tools you need to train yourself and your team how to be excellent managers.

You'll Receive:

- Ten copies of the book entitled, Excellence in Management to be used as a participant learning manual and take away study guide for your first ten training participants. Of course, you may purchase extra copies of the book as needed.
- One Excellence in Management Leader's Guide to guide you in training your managers through an action-packed and informative training program.
- The Excellence in Management PowerPoint presentation to add punch and depth to your presentation of the material
- The Excellence in Management Learning Assessment to be used as a Level Two Assessment (Knowledge Acquisition) after your training.
